In Saloons and in the Churches

1,087 IN BOOZE JOINTS

In Fifteen Minutes, With but 665 Men in All Churches

With 665 men in churches and 1,087 in saloons, by actual count, Rev. J. W. Irish of the First M. E. church last night drew a striking picture of the results of Sunday saloons and illustrated in a pointed way "Why Some Men do not go to Church."

Rev. Irish secured a count of the number of men frequenting La Crosse saloons for a period of fifteen minutes yesterday afternoon, and by the same method secured the number of men in the city church at a given time last night. Reports from his emissaries came to him while he was preaching making the point particularly striking and timely.

Rev. Irish's topic last night was "Faults of Present Day Conditions" and a large congregation heard the interesting discourse. He said in part:

"I want to ask what right the Sunday theatre has in La Crosse. What right have they to open their doors in the face of the law? I want to ask why this is allowed. You know the reason why. Every one of us knows the reason why. And I want to ask one other thing. Why is it that the saloons are allowed to be opened on Sunday. I wonder if you could get into a saloon today if you tried. I know of a good many who tried today and did not have a bit of trouble in getting in every place they tried."

Mr. Irish had had an investigation made of the number of men found in the saloons at a certain hour in the afternoon and also of the number of men in the churches in the evening, the latter report coming in during the preaching of the sermon.

"This afternoon between 3:45 and 4 there were in the saloons of this city by careful count and estimate including also the billiard rooms, 1,087 men and four women. Might we not go on and say one other thing, that for every man who was in the saloon at a quarter of four this afternoon we might with all justice say there was one other man at some other time of the day. Would it be wrong for me to say that there were two thousand men in the saloons of this city? And this evening there are only 665 men in all the churches of this city. We know that every man who steps inside a saloon on Sunday, and that every saloon keeper that opens his doors on Sunday, and shakes his fist at you and me, citizens of this country who have had put upon the statute books a law which says saloons shall be closed on Sunday, and it seems to me that when we consider these things men ought to awaken from their lethargy and say we will have a different condition of affairs. If you want to know where some men are, look at these figures.

"One of the correspondents writes, 'My reason for not attending church more regularly is that I work six days a week and on the seventh day I try to get acquainted with my family, rest and do my reading for the week.'

There are some men who never have a chance to see their families except on Sunday, but these are very few in a city the size of La Crosse. The time of church service is not needed for this purpose, for there is plenty of time in the afternoon to get acquainted with the family, much more time than most men take. Furthermore, I wonder if it is not a fact that the man who stays home to get acquainted with his family does not deprive his family of the privilege of getting acquainted with God. Which is more important, to acquaint a man with his family or acquaint a family with their God. Many such men at the bar of God will be asked what they did to bring the wife, the boys and the girls to a knowledge of that which is nobler and truer, to a knowledge of Christ, and they will be speechless.

"Perhaps another wrong idea is at the bottom of this excuse. Religion is not intended to put greater burdens upon man, but rather it enables them to bear the burdens they have the more easily. Jesus said, 'Come unto me, all ye that labor and are heavy laden and I will give you rest.' "Once again. Men appreciate the one day in seven which they have for rest and recreation, and yet do they ever think why they have this great blessing? It would be a continual seven day grind had it not been for the religion of the Bible, and yet they are willing to enjoy the blessing and acknowledge no obligation for it. In sheer thankfulness the men of this country ought to give a portion at least of their Sabbath to the service of the church which has made the Sabbath possible."

DON'T GO TO MILWAUKEE

Don't go to Milwaukee to do your buying! Don't, if you are loyal to La Crosse! Don't if you want this to become a great city. Remember the motto, "La Crosse money for La Crosse goods!" The Milwaukee Jobbers and Manufacturers' Association has circulated La Crosse on behalf of its offer of excursion rates to Milwaukee to trade in the Milwaukee stores. The Milwaukee merchants want you to come down there and buy up their holiday trade remnants. It is on the order of the Baxter street stores where they grab you off the sidewalk as you try to pass and shove a shoddy, lousy coat into your arms with one hand while they "frisk" your pockets with the other. We have great stores in La Crosse. Don't make Milwaukee the bargain counter at which you spend your money. La Crosse people should trade with La Crosse merchants.

Do you know that last year the city of La Crosse spent more than $100,000 in Chicago mail order houses alone? Think of that $100,000 gone to foreign pockets for goods that could have been duplicated here for less money! Think of this great sum, now lost to us, that should have helped enrich this city!

Appoint yourself a committee of one to help send those excursion coaches back to Milwaukee as empty as they came! Teach Milwaukee that this is no market for gold bricks! ...

FATHER AND SON DIE SAME DAY

George and Nick- olis are Gone

With a son expiring at 5:15 in the morning and the death of the father occurring at 3:30 in the afternoon the families of George A. and Nicholas Yost sustained a double bereavement yesterday, and two homes are made desolate.

George A. Yost, aged 28, residing at 821 South Fourth street, was taken ill New Year's day with typhoid pneumonia and conveyed to the La Crosse hospital. He rapidly grew worse until the end came yesterday morning.

He was one of the promising young businessmen of the city, being in charge of the clothing department of the Park Store. He leaves a wife and eleven-month old son, a mother, three sisters and two brothers.

Nicholas Yost, the father, residing at 947 Market street, had been ailing for some time with cancer of the throat and since last spring had been an inmate of St. Francis hospital. The end came at 3:30 yesterday afternoon.

Deceased was born in German 59 years ago, was married there and came to La Crosse in 1872. He was a bricklayer by trade. He leaves a wife, three daughters, Theresa of Waumandee, Anna and Mary of La Crosse; and two sons, August, employed by Reuder and Mader, and Anton of Milwaukee.

A double funeral will be held Wednesday morning at 8:30 from St. Joseph's cathedral. Rev. Father Sleyter will officiate and societies of which deceased were members, St. Joseph's Liebenbund and the Catholic order of Foresters, will attend. Interment will be made in the Catholic cemetery.

DID CLARA MIL- ES REPEAT TRICK?

Clara Miles, the colored woman who was recently liberated by a circuit court jury after spending several months in jail awaiting trial on the charge of robbing a Minnesota farmer of $35 on the river front, is alleged to have committed another theft of the same sort Saturday night and edcamped with the proceeds on one of the early Sunday morning train.

According to the complaint made at the police station she extracted eight or ten dollars from the pocket of her victim while engaged in earnest conversation with him in a shed, and the loss was not discovered until some time later. When the complaint was made it was discovered that the woman had left town.

FRITZ'S MEAT SHOP ROBBED

The meat market of Chas. Fritz, 1311 Market street, was broken into last evening and a number of hams, bacon and other meats carried off. Entrance was gained by cutting through a rear window. It is not known who committed the theft but persons residing in the vicinity are suspected.

ALL JUMPED BUT HENRY R. ROGERS Oil Magnate Still and Smiled at Unexpected Flash-light

(Scripps-McRae Dispatch.)

NEW YORK, Jan. 8.—Missouri's investigation of the Standard Oil company was resumed. Witnesses testified as to the suits of independent agents against the defendant.

H. H. Rogers was called. A photographer set off a flash light without warning. Everybody in the room except Rogers jumped. He sat still and smiled. Rogers frequently asked for a private hearing because he said he was nervous.

The employees of the Standard Oil company testified to orders when connected with subsidiary companies but would not divulge their connection with the Standard.

PLAN MORE BRICK STREETS

La Crosse will continue its street improvement policy next year to a certain extent even if there is a shortage of the money for the purpose.

While it has been announced there would be no paving done next year it has been ascertained in the city hall that about $4,000 will be available for special work on the streets, and a meeting of the special street improvement committee for Thursday night was called this morning by Mayor Torrance.

With $4,000 for the city's share of paving perhaps a mile of new streets can be laid, this amount being used solely for street and alley crossings.

While there are no petitions on file at the city hall for paving, members of the committee have already practically decided where the improvements are most needed. Sixth street, from either Cass or Market to the new engine house on Mississippi, is one of the projects under consideration for macadam. Fourth street needs a connecting lock of brick between King and Cass, and the members of the committee also believe that macadam to connect with that laid last year ending at Jackson and Twelfth streets should be laid from Twelfth to the State road cul-de-sac. Farmers now come down Market street but this thoroughfare is in bad shape and the improvement is said to be necessary. Caledonia street on the north side may also be fixed up.

PEDDLER MUST HAVE LOCAL LICENSE

Passing upon a case originating in Fountain City two years ago, and tried in La Crosse in the United States court, the United States court of appeals has ruled that even if a peddler has a state license it does not give him the right to sell his wares in a city or village where a local peddlers' license is required without first securing a local license.

After the arrest of the two Jewish peddlers in Fountain City and their release following the serving of a sentence one of the peddlers, Louis Barnett, sued all of the people connected with his arrest for $5,000 for false imprisonment. Defendants in the suit were F. Bohri, the Fountain

City merchant, Charles Kirchner, justice of the peace, Alex Baechler, deputy sheriff, and Martin L. Fugina, district attorney of Buffalo county.

She case was brought for trial before Judge Bunn in La Crosse in September, 1904, and Barnett secured a verdict of $500 against the Fountain City people.

The case was sent to the United States court of appeals and decision reversing the verdict of the lower court was handed down in Chicago Friday. The court held that Barnett had no right to claim damages for false imprisonment because the Fountain City authorities were justified in arresting and imprisoning him.

ONE HUNDRED AND FIFTY-THREE.

Just three days ago The Tribune first published its call to the business interests of La Crosse—manufacturers, jobbers and merchants—and to the public in general, soliciting signers who thereby promise to promote home industry by buying home goods and by patronizing home merchants and jobbers. Only three days ago, and we have already received 153 signed pledges.

This is far short of the 5,000 which we announced we would get, but it is a good start. It demonstrates that the subject is one in which public-spirited people are interested, and we take it as an earnest of the purpose of the public to support the movement. We are confident that by the end of the week we will have 1,000 signers.

The Tribune thanks those who have pledged their loyalty to La Crosse, and to those who have not as yet attended to the matter, it makes urgent appeal to do so at once. DO IT WHEN YOU READ THIS. That is NOW. Sign the pledge that appears on page 4 of this paper NOW.

PILLSBURY PERFECTION

The good housewife is a good cook, or she hires a good cook. Given good flour, the good housewife will have good bread, and the better the flour the better the bread. Thus, perfect flour means perfect bread.

Do you know that scientific judges of world wide repute have three times declared Pillsbury Perfect flour. This celebrated brand took Three Grand Prizes at the St. Louis Exposition. What does that mean? We will tell you:

WHAT A GRAND PRIZE MEANS:

Judges of World's Fair Exhibits employed the following schedule in marking merits of exhibits, showing that an article on exhibit must have rare excellence to secure a GRAND PRIZE:—

- |   |           |
|---|-----------|
| a Value of product or process as measured by its usefulness and beneficial influence to mankind, counting not to exceed | 25 points |
| b Skill and ingenuity in manufacture  | 25 points |
| c Ingenuity and taste in display  | 10 points |
| d Magnitude of business   | 10 points |
| e Quality of product compared with price  | 10 points |
| f For completion of exhibit within required time and for maintenance  | 10 points |
| g Length of time exhibitor has been in business, original invention   | 5 points  |
| h Number and character of awards received at previous expositions   | 5 points  |

Total 100 points

The following scale of markings was used in determining the final merits of an exhibit and fixing the award:—

- Exhibits receiving markings ranging
- From 60 to 74 inclusive—Bronze Medal.
  - From 75 to 84 inclusive—Silver Medal.
  - From 85 to 94 inclusive—Gold Medal.
  - From 95 to 100 inclusive—GRAND PRIZE.

An idea that emanates from Paris is a blouse made of strips of tucke batiste alternating with bands of flowered ribbon. The effect is charmingly Dresden.

Large muffs are made of fur on the outside and velvet inside. They are both economical and attractive.

The newest stoles are shawl shaped, cut closely around the throat and rounded on the shoulders, coming down to a point in front.

White gloves are worn in the evening, but not in the street—pearl gray, old lace tints, champagne and all the different fawn shades being much smarter.

The coronet style of hairdressing is very much in vogue. The new style, which is exceedingly becoming, differs from the old in that the hair is twisted into a knot at the nape of the neck, the coronet being entirely separate. It is not a difficult thing to arrange and is as pretty for an older woman as for a young girl.

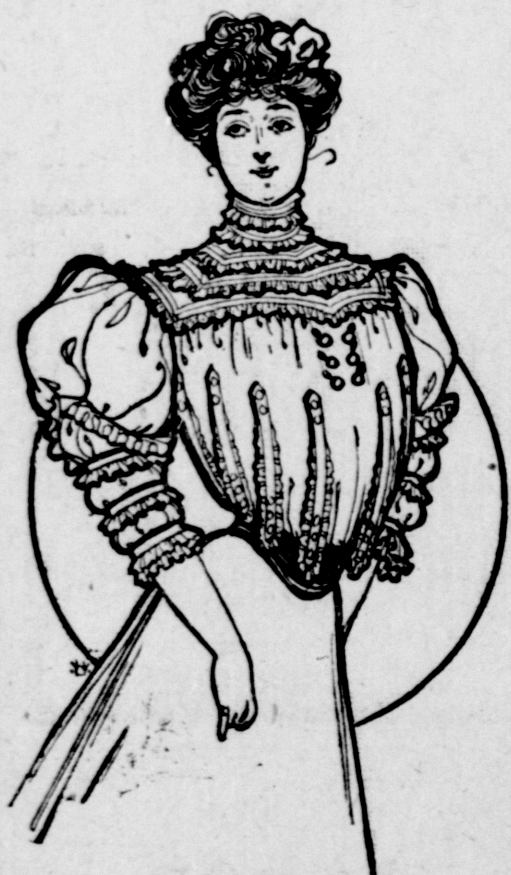

The stunning little sealskin bolero is most attractive worn over a princess gown. It is trimmed with rows of dull gold braid and buttons.

Dancing Slippers of Satin Embroidered in Ribbon Work.

The clever needlewoman in search of a novelty for Christmas is turning her attention to the subject of slippers, for nothing promises to be more worn this winter than dancing slippers of white or very pale colored satin embroidered all over in a design of silk or ribbon work, which in some cases is brightened with precious stones until they rival in splendor the historic bejeweled shoes worn by Sir Walter Raleigh. Such shoes are easily embroidered by the amateur and may be mounted by a good shoemaker. Care, however, must be taken that the pattern exactly fits the foot for which the slipper is intended.

The "Light" of a Store "Hidden Under a Bushel" Ceases to be a Light At All

Publicity, which is the light of a store, should not be snuffed out now and then. Some merchants think that to keep this light always burning costs too much—but, for that matter, so do many other things cost too much.

For example: Your store rent is too high--when your business is poor; you have too many clerks--for a dull day. Yet these things don't worry you for a moment when things are moving, everybody busy or overworked--especially your cashiers--and when you wish you had more room, more clerks, more stock.

Of course you never had one of those busy days that was not the result of aggressive advertising. And you never had a blue trade day that did not follow a practical hiding of the publicity light.

"ENTERPRISE IN SPOTS" yields, at best, only spots of prosperity. A steady "store light" of increasing candle power--inches of space used daily--with the "snuffers" and the "bushels" sent to the cellar--and store growth and expansion will come in a measure that will amaze you.

"Out of sight, out of mind," sums up the plight of the occasional advertiser.

SUPT. MCKOWN OF COUNTY ASYLUM DIES SUDDENLY

Strain on Stomach Sustained While at Work at Asylum Three Years Ago is Probable Cause

In the death of C. S. McKown, superintendent of the La Crosse county insane asylum at West Salem, which occurred at 6:45 Saturday evening, the county sustains a severe loss. News of his death was a decided shock in every community in the county, few knowing that he was ill and not even members of his family realizing that his sickness was serious until a few hours before the end.

Mr. McKown had been troubled for three years with stomach trouble, an outgrowth of a strain sustained while working about the asy-lun which doctors believe tore the lining of the stomach.

He has been able to be about most of the time and in the summer was bothered but little, but during the winters his condition became worse. Acting upon the advice of his physician he took a western and southern trip two winters but this winter decided to stay at home. He had been unfit for work of any kind for the past two weeks and for several days had been confined to his bed. The end came most unexpectedly Saturday night.

C. S. McKown was born in La Crosse county March 14, 1858, a son of Samuel and Mary McKown, pioneer farmers who came to this county in 1855. Deceased entered upon the realities of a business life at the age of 20 years, when he engaged in the milling business with his brother Myron. Afterwards he farmed for a while and then came to the city, where he clerked for a time in a wholesale house and later was employed in a retail establishment. For a year he was deputy sheriff and turnkey under Sheriff Jensen.

On January 1, 1888, upon completion of the county asylum Mr. McKown was appointed superintendent and Mrs. McKown matron, positions they have held continuously since, attending to their arduous duties with great credit to themselves and the institution. The excellent condition of the asylum at present attests to the exceptional fitness of Mr. McKown for superintendent, and the county will have a difficult time filling his place.

Mr. McKown was united in marriage July 17, 1880, to Miss Lizzie M. Sims, daughter of Samuel and Mary Sims and besides his wife leaves two children, Miss Sarah, aged 20, who is studying music in Chicago, and Charles, aged 13.

The funeral will be held from Christ Episcopal church in this city, tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock. The remains will be brought to the city over the Northwestern road, arriving here at 12:30 p. m. tomorrow, and will be taken directly to the church. An opportunity will be given to view the remains from 12:30 until 2. The Masons will have charge of the services at the grave, deceased being a thirty-second degree member of the order. Interment will be made in the family lot in Oak Grove cemetery, the family lot in Oak Grove cemetery.

Nervous Worn-Out

If you are in this condition, your nerve force is weak—the power is giving out, the organs of your body have "slowed up," and do their work imperfectly. This failure to do the work required, clogs the system and brings distress and disease. When the nerves are weak the heart is unable to force the life-giving blood through your veins; the stomach fails to digest food; the kidneys lack power to filter impurities from the blood, and the poisonous waste remains in the system to breed disease. Nerve energy must be restored. Dr. Miles' Nervine will do it, because it strengthens the nerves; it is a nerve medicine and tonic, that rebuilds the entire nervous system.

"Several years ago I was all broken down. I was nervous, worn-out, could not sleep, and was in constant pain. I doctored for months, and finally the doctor said he could do nothing for me. ## COMBINE THE LIGHT PLANTS.

THE WISCONSIN LIGHT & POWER COMPANY MAY COMBINE WITH THE LIGHT TRUST! There is no reason why it should not do so. It is a business enterprise, and business is done for MONEY. Obviously, if the plants are combined, and competition is again done away with, the consolidated concern resulting from the combination could again charge what it pleased—and if your memory is good, you know approximately what that would be. The Tribune CREATED the new light plant; it induced the men who started it to invest their money there with the purpose of charging only fair prices for current, in order that the people of La Crosse might be relieved from the atrocious exactions of the Gelatt-McMillan Light Trust. They put the money in, and competition is now saving the people of this community from 20 per cent to 60 per cent on their light and power. Now WE ADVISE the new company to COMBINE.

Because there are a number of people in La Crosse who deserve to be SOLD OUT. It has been demonstrated that ONCE WAS NOT ENOUGH TO TEACH THEM THE LESSON. They should get it again; they should pay for experience until they get enough of it to teach them horse sense. We feel responsible for good men having put up large sums for the benefit of the public. It is evident that a certain portion of that public proposes to profit by the results without giving support to the investors. Therefore we advise the new investors to combine with the Light Trust and GET THE MONEY.

One gentleman—a clean, intelligent businessman—who was earnest in his condemnation of the Light Trust a year ago and who made no bones of calling them a spade, has signed up with the old Light Trust at about 50 per cent of the rate they were charging him for current before the new company was incorporated. He admits that he has saved some $600 on his light bills during the time as the result of competition, and he is not sure that the new company could not have beaten the Light Trust even at the reduced rate. But he signed up with the Light Trust, he says, as a "business proposition." That man should have to pay 10 cents per 1,000 watts on a Dan Patch meter for the rest of his life, as a "business proposition."

There are others. One of the loudest of the antagonists of the Light Trust, who is located on Main street, might be favorably mentioned as a shining example of this sort of astuteness. Men of this sort go no farther than the question, "What is the lowest price I can get?" They do not figure that the miserable service they get from the Light Trust, poor light and high pressure with watt-eating lamps, makes any difference; they do not think it worth while to show appreciation by declining contracts that temporarily pretend to mean light for less than cost of manufacture (if the meters are honest and the light no more than ordinarily weak and ineffective) when the independent company that made possible good light at reasonable prices offers them cheaper light than they have had since the Light Trust was organized; they do not grasp the fact that the Light Trust must pay its interest on those $700,000 of bonds and cost of operating plus interest on its money and money for the coupon clipper, and that THE PEOPLE MUST PAY IT IN GAS AND HEAT if they do not pay it in electricity. These light users are taking a dollar less out of their trousers pockets to pay for electricity and a dollar more out of their vest pockets to pay for gas and heat. That is all.

And as there are several of these remarkable financiers in the city, we advise the Independent company to COMBINE WITH THE LIGHT TRUST.

Of course we don't! And of course they won't combine! We merely wanted to shock some mistaken gentlemen into a realization of the possibilities of the short-sighted course they are pursuing. As a bit of inside information, we wish to tell them that Messrs. Hogan, Salzer, Burns and Van Steenwyk did not want to go into the light business. They are all men who have plenty of use for their money and plenty of business to occupy them. They invested only after earnest urging. Public sentiment demanded an independent plant to relieve the people from the oppression of the Light Trust. It was with deep reluctance that, at the close of a useful life when he should have been resting from business cares, Hon. James J. Hogan assumed part of the new burden which with relentless vigor the younger if no less busy Henry Salzer had determined should be borne by La Crosse capital for the benefit of La Crosse people. It was under pressure, and at a sacrifice that these four men came to the rescue; it was when put upon their honor to subserve the good of the community in which they live. There may be a shade of difference on the surface, if we may disregard the quality of light given, between the new "cut" prices of the Light Trust and the regular price established for now and for all time by the Independent company, but its owners felt that the people of La Crosse would recognize their motives in starting a light plant and would accept their assurance that those were always to be their prices, at the same time recognizing the fact that so far as the Light Trust is concerned, it is a "light war," and the "light war" prices established to "buck" competition are only to last until that happy moment when the Gelatt-McMillan crowd hopes to see the Independent company close its doors.

No, we do not advise the Independent company to consolidate. We know that it never will. But we want to feel that every square man who wanted competition can drop on his knees in his accustomed "Now I lay me down to sleep," and there in the dark, wrestling with The Man who said, "Let there be light," have no confession to make of a pig-gishness for pennies saved for a few months during a "light war" for which he must ask that in the great hereafter another light may not singe his whiskers as a sensation of guilt is now blistering his conscience.

THE PRICE OF "MEDDLING."

In Caledonia there are tears and sadness, there are graves and mourners, there are the dead!

It was a heinous crime that Matt Styer committed. There can be no palliation of his bloody deeds. Young, with the full promise of Life before him, he went to his grave with the shadow of the unforgivable sin upon him, after sending two women over the divide before him.

Crazy! Crazy! Crazy! He had never harmed anyone. He was not cruel, not vindictive. But as usual there was a woman in it. This time it was a young and beautiful girl; she loved Styer, as there is ample evidence to prove Styer loved her. Attempts to estrange them led to unhappy conditions and as a fateful climax Styer, the mild young dentist, became a raving maniac taking the blood of her for whom he had dared so much.

It is too terrible a lesson for any one or two families to learn at so frightful a cost. Unless it proves a lesson to the world, there can be no adequate compensation for the blasted hopes, the suffering and deaths. Fathers, mothers, don't tell your sane and matured children whom they MUST or MUST NOT marry. That always leads to trouble. Reason with them, but don't coerce. With two families opposing a match to which, quibbling eliminated, there was no apparent obstruction other than a conflict of religious creeds, there came a tragedy which has shocked the entire northwest. Weep for them, these young dead, who lie in the cold earth. And if you are inclined to question advice against meddling with the love affairs of adults, ask yourself what you would have done had someone tried to prevent YOU from marrying the one your heart yearned for. Perhaps YOU, too, would have gone crazy or been slain by a maniac.

HOW TO HELP ROOSEVELT.

Roosevelt is a good thinker, but do not let him do all your thinking.

President Roosevelt is so largely right, so morally sound, and so genuinely popular, that it is natural that many people should accept his opinions without taking trouble to think for themselves. If you are one of these persons you are not only doing yourself but Roosevelt a serious injustice.

The president's influence will be valuable to the nation so long as people follow him intelligently. The very fact that he is so frequently right has in it a danger that people will follow him blindly and not check or correct him in the event of his being occasionally wrong.

In this matter of railway rebates people are with the president because it has become clear that something must be done to curb the power of the railroads. But it is vital that you, who have your individual share of sovereignty in this country, should inform yourself and have your opinion as to the method by which the curb shall be applied.

Roosevelt himself speaks on rate regulation in very general terms. He is a man who thinks broadly and in some respects lacks the sort of intellectual power which can grip details as firmly as it can grasp principles. It is, therefore, doubly necessary that his friends and followers should support rate legislation with understanding.

In other words, the president needs all the help he can get to make his campaign against railroad evils successful.

Futhermore, it is well to notice the way Roosevelt uses the word "sovereign" in his message. He says: "Supervision of a corporation can only be exercised by a sovereign whose jurisdiction is co-extensive with the field of work of the corporation." This is probably the first time the word "sovereign" has been used in an official paper in referring to any person or power in the United States since George III. ceased to be the ruler of this country. Who, therefore, is this "sovereign" that the president talks about?

Certain enemies of the president have declared that in using this word he attributes to himself a sort of kingship. This of course, is not true. There is, however, a "sovereign" in this country. Sovereign power in the United States is vested collectively in all males over 21 years old. Every man, therefore, has his own equal share of sovereignty. Roosevelt possesses no more of it than he has, and he has no more of it than Roosevelt has. Each man, therefore, owes it to himself, to his own sovereign power, and to his fellow sovereign Roosevelt, to understand and take part in this railway rate agitation to the full extent of his ability.

NIGHT'S MESSENGER.

Deep lies the night upon the land!
A silence reigns on every hand,
Inviting somber mood.
By ghost-like forms my fancy fanned,
Permits weird spectres to expand
In melancholly brood!
And while the good wife sleeps below
These forms fantastic come and go
Some message to impart.
It's portent? Ah, I know, I know!
They say, "Lay on! Engage thy foe!
Cheer! Be thou of good heart!"
Ah, thank the, Darkness of The Night

That arms us mortals for the fight
That each must lose or win!
We call thee "Conscience." Thou the Light—
The ever-present ghost of Right—
Thy foe, Besetting Sin.

A TOAST TO A POSTER.

A woman's eyes look down at me
From on the wall—it is just a poster—
And she looks so fair from way up there
That I feel just like I want to toast her.

So, "Here's to you, with your eyes so blue
And your soul so good—if good you be—
But devil care I how bad you are,
For you look good to me."

"There's always room for a good twirler," said Captain Bond.
"There's always room for a twirler drifted back, and overheard. "What's that got to do with it?" he shot in. "Ain't it all head work. Ain't I there with the head? Don't I tell 'em all where to head in at? Don't I head off a standoff from sixteen reporters every day? Ever see me in a head end collision? Don't I hire a red-headed bartender? When you come down here at night don't you always wind up with a head-ache in the morning. When you say our lunch is on the pig don't I make a noise like a head-cheese? 'Can he throw,' well I'll be beheaded!"

Otto has been signed. He won't last long, but as The Dutchman is on the board of directors he will never be "released." His obituary will read, "resigned."

DECOLLETTE.

"T was chilly! Dressed in party gown
Milady sadly felt
Too many yards—in party gowns—
Are bestowed below the belt.

And at the theatre that night
She asked, "Am I well dressed?"
And I shivered as I gazed, for she
Was sitting just abreast.

The atmosphere was none to warm,
And as I saw her there
I mused, 'T is strange indeed how much
The womenfolk can bare.

I gazed, enraptured. "O rubberneck!"
She cried in rage, "You wretch!"
Quite right, dear madam," I replied,
"I see it's quite a stretch."

JUST LIFE

If Rev. Irish sought to find men in saloons in numbers he should have made his canvass Saturday night, instead of Sunday.

Chop 'suey! Yes, and then those dark oily gases.

Well, our friends didn't write anything today—so our hide's whole yet, anyway.

A suspicious woman is like a jury of farmers trying a gold-brick man; she can't be convinced.

Now if they can get John Rottenfeller on the stand for a while and suppress those Standard attorneys, we may get some pointers on the religion of high finance that will open our eyes.

McCall sneered loudest at Lawson; now Lawson laughs loudest at "Mac."

If the money kings can't do anything else to stop this bunch of investigations they can tie up the money market and create a panic that will starve the poor.

There's a man in the city of beer
Who's tactics are certainly queer,
His mouth opens wide
And his foot falls inside
And he bites his own toes in his sneer.

With an explanation of "Why Women Sin" at the theatre and "Why Some Men Do Not Go to Church" in the pulpit, La Crosse people should be getting next to themselves.

Expert Answers.

Dear Sir:—I am a beautiful young girl, and until recently had a fine complexion. Now my face is getting tough and my nose is getting red, while my hair is not so smooth and glossy as it was. Please send me a recipe which will restore my former beauty.

Keep out of bad company. For the complexion use fine emery paper twice daily and apply kerosene and cod liver oil, after polishing down the tough surface.

A Poem for Today

DREAMING OF HOME

By Eugene Field

It comes to me often in silence,
When the firelight sputters
low,
When the black, uncertain shadows
Seem wreaths of long ago;
Always with a throb of heartache
That thrills each pulsive vein
Comes the old, unquiet longing
For the peace of home again.

I'm sick of the roar of cities
And of the faces cold and strange;
I know where there's warmth and welcome,
And my yearning fancies range
Back to the dear old homestead
With an aching sense of pain,
But there'll be joy in the coming
When I go home again.

When I go home again! There's music
That may never die away,
And it seems the hands of angels
On a mystic harp at play
Have touched with a yearning sadness
On a beautiful broken strain
To which is my fond heart wording—
When I go home again

Outside of my darkened window
Is the great world's crash and din,
And slowly the autumn shadows
Come drifting, drifting in;
Sobbing, the night wind murmurs
To the splash of the autumn rain,
But I dream of the glorious greeting
When I go home again

AN APPEAL

To the Manhood of La Crosse Men

For months THE TRIBUNE has been conducting a campaign to promote the support of La Crosse manufacturers by urging all loyal citizens to buy goods made in La Crosse wherever and whenever they are to be had on even terms with goods shipped here from foreign factories. It is an unfortunate fact that all of us are in the habit of neglecting this important duty. We do it because we are thoughtless; every man of us would buy a La Crosse article that is as good as a foreign-made article sold at the same prices, IF WE ONLY THOUGHT. The Tribune proposes to make every man in La Crosse THINK.

Why We Should Always Think

If La Crosse has a great future, it is as a MANUFACTURING CENTER. The sawmills and the Wisconsin pine forests made La Crosse. But the pine forests are gone, and the sawmills are gone, and most of the lumbermen are gone. Those who remain have wealth accumulated in a lifetime of industry, and they want to invest it. They would prefer to invest it in La Crosse, but they will not do so extensively unless they recognize a purpose on the part of the people of La Crosse to support the establishments that are started here. Neither will the millions of outside capital seeking investment come here without the encouragement of HOME SUPPORT. In short, La Crosse cannot be anything great except a manufacturing center, and it cannot become a manufacturing center unless its people invite investment in factories by supporting their factories.

It Is Up to You

Do YOU live in La Crosse? Do YOU expect to CONTINUE to live in La Crosse? If you do, you are vitally interested in everything that will build up La Crosse. Nothing will build this city up as will home patronage of home goods. The Tribune has begun a crusade which it believes will within one year increase the home market for home-made goods FIFTY PER CENT. That is a lot to say. We say it because we believe in YOU. We believe that once YOU become impressed with the importance of doing so, you will DEMAND home-manufactured goods. Who are YOU?

Are YOU a capitalist? An investor? If so, YOU know that a popular purpose to buy home-made goods means success to La Crosse factories whose successes MUST radiate success to every man who owns a dollar's worth of property here, or is engaged in business here, or earns salary or wages here.

Are YOU a merchant? If so you know that support of home goods means more factories, more employees, more patrons of the retail stores, more sales, more profits, more prosperity. It means enhanced values of your real estate; it means a bigger bank account and an expansion of your business.

Are YOU a salary or wage earner. If so you know that home buying of home goods means more employment, higher average wages, increased in value of your home if you own one, greater general prosperity in which you are a stockholder.

What Can You Do?

You can make up your mind to do something, and DO it. We ask YOU to fill out and sign the pledge that accompanies this article, and mail it to The Tribune. We guarantee you that this will HELP. "Every little bit helps."

Think what it would mean were 1,000 men of La Crosse to sign this pledge, and KEEP IT! WE KNOW that at least 5,000 La Crosse men will sign it and keep it. It is easy enough, and we know that YOU will do this little bit for La Crosse. WAIT A MINUTE! This means YOU. And NOW is the time.

Get your friends to sign this pledge also. See to it that your influence is exerted in a good cause. Write a letter telling what you think of the work, and suggest to us new ideas in carrying it out. Address all letters and pledges to

City Builders' Pledge

I hereby pledge my support to the movement for the support of HOME factories. I will buy La Crosse made goods wherever they compete in quality and price with foreign products; I will buy of home retailers in preference to foreign mail order or department houses; I will give preference to home jobbing houses; I will endeavor to induce my neighbors and friends to do the same.

Millet, Indian corn and wheat are among the chief farm products of Manchuria. Apples and grapes do well, although the native apple is soft and lacks flavor. Tomatoes grow in great abundance, particularly in southern Manchuria, where asparagus also flourishes. All vegetables, as a rule, can be grown in abundance.

The word "supercilious" comes from the Latin word signifying the eyebrow. The habit of lifting the eyebrows in scorn suggested the present significance.

Ink Stains on Silver.
Chloride of lime and water will remove ink stains from silver if well rubbed on the stains and then washed off at once, the silver being then polished as ordinarily. ## You will not Prosper

Because of the bargains your neighbors find in the stores. Begin to read the advertisements yourself.

The La Crosse Tribune is the city's foremost advertising medium.

GRANT E. REYNOLDS WRITES OF LOCAL CONDITIONS

In a letter to the Tribune, Grant E. Reynolds, formerly a leader in business circles of this city and now one of the most prominent merchants in Iowa, says:

I have always thought that people generally have troubles of their own and do not care what happens to the other fellow. However, the wonderful growth of the Tribune and what it has accomplished in so short a time leads me to believe that the Tribune is being read and the rascality of the country generally is not on the popular side, that you the packed by men, instead of money gives you legitimate cause to live and do your duty as a newspaper. That the Tribune is the honest champion of the people of La Crosse there is no doubt.

Regarding the Wisconsin Light & Power company I think all reasonable people will cast their lot with them. Certainly the gentlemen behind that enterprise are of different calibre and minds than the skimmed milk outfit who fought the old company without much if any cash. Not that these grafters should be whipped because they fought the old company without capital of their own but it is the way they did it.

I could give you the names of forty good men who will say there was not a decent vote cast to ratify that deal which took from the merchants the dividend-paying money-saving Central Electric which paid from first to last according to its secretary, who kept me posted upon the wonderful progress the Central was making. The president told us he could not get the stock holders to subscribe for fifty thousand dollars stock. Now in the first place they would not trust him with more money, nor did the company need it. Those were stirring times and to show you the feeling, especially at the last meeting when a prominent attorney said in part among other things: "I represent two orphan children owning stock in this company and Mr. President how dare you with your proxies sit there and vote this property away from them." (When I came to La Crosse I will give you the names of the proxies.) The next morning after the last Central meeting a party of men (honest men) offered the owner of the Chronicle something like nine or ten thousand dollars (a big price) but the paper was not for sale. Had there been a free paper in La Crosse at that time this bunch of Judases would have been up before the court

ed. But now, I look for the sturdy people of La Crosse to even up and the fellow that is getting to per cent on the old common stock he bought is undoubtedly paying 15 per cent on his conceptions of moral obligation and trust toward men were not as valuable to him as 6 per cent on a chance loan. But he got in and had to stick.

Incidentally this so-called high financing and stock jobbing will eventually take the meat and butter from the workman's table. It certainly offers no inducement for honest men or time tried service. The big national trusts are bad enough and they will continue to get worse unless we control the smaller one in our local municipality.

A few treat these matters as a joke but every man is entitled to his own convictions and conscience if he has any. That a man in business cannot live the Christian life seems to be the vogue. We need more men like Roosevelt and La Follette.

I have been away from La Crosse nearly one year and a half and none the worse financially but in good company. Regarding the Tribune I wish you every success so long as you keep to the right, publish only the truth and show no quarters to the crooks, no matter what their positions or occupation may be.

Well, the merchants have had a long expensive pull and the old company will probably offer them light free for one year. If what I hear is true the Wisconsin company will light every store in La Crosse but one, and as for a newspaper you certainly have the pick and the field. Light here is one-third less and gas fully one half less for a much better quality of both. The difference in the quality is even more than the difference in the price. I presume this is on account of "Philowatts."

AT THE THEATRES

Mr. Andrew Mack the popular Irish comedian and sweet singer, will appear at the La Crosse theatre Wednesday, Jan. 10, in "The Way to Kenmare," in which he has charmed and been successful on two continents. He will be assisted by the same clever players who accompanied him to Australia, where he received as great an ovation in Melbourne and Sydney, as Sir Henry Irving did in New York. Mr. Mack is not alone an actor of great ability and versatility, but a fortunate possessor of a clear brilliant tenor voice, which he port my family without graft, I want nothing to do with that kind.

Regarding the E. R. Barron company squeeze we could have been in on the deal—as to myself I am too modest to enlarge, but Mr. H. had too much self-respect and manhood, but when we saw the hand of the estate show up in the game we knew we were to be sacrificed.

The public know what this concern was during Mr. E. R. Barron's reign, and we all know what it is today.

At the present time most of the Barron company's stock is owned outside La Crosse and the state, and most of its earnings are sent out of La Crosse. This some times does not accord one the same support as would be given a home institution, whose earnings are banked in La Crosse or spent for La Crosse improvements. These facts along with their position in the light trust may or may not enhance their earnings. Charley said we hadn't nerve enough. We never said that of him. So when you see one of their big adds in the Press and none in the Tribune you can draw your own conclusions.

There is one man in La Crosse who could have stopped the light ideal and the Barron freeze out, but knows how to use with great skill and charming taste.

There have been many comedy dramas on the American stage but none that has come as near nature or achieved the instantaneous success as George Ade's "The County Chairman," which Henry W. Savage will offer at the La Crosse theatre on Thursday, Jan. 11th. "The County Chairman" ran all one season at Wallack's theatre, New York, and the best part of another season at the Studebaker theatre in Chicago.

Cowper wrote that "to follow foolish precedents, and to wink with both our eyes, is easier than to think!" but this is not true of modern business life, especially of advertising, in which even the best precedents are followed but a little while and then easily passed on the road; and in which to wink with either eye—at lethargy and inaction—is to invite wreck and disaster.
